Lady With High Strikes
Where Is the Leader?
Much About Wall Street

—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright 1929)

THERE is one fortunate filing in all the Wall Street meetings. Working men's strikes are not affected. They take in 60 billion dollars a year in pay, live on 40 billions, and have 20 billions to spend every year. The same applies to vacuum cleaners, radio sets, talking machines, etc.

It is not only the leaders, but all their all, many after working hard for it, who are not affected and consequently the really great spending power is untouched.

The bears were happy in Wall Street today, and the wonder is that who has finally sold is selling even more foolishly, sacrificing valuable properties for much less than the present values in many instances.

TODAY'S ODDEST NEWS

MYSTEROUS PRINCE STEALS GIRL'S SHOES

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—Perry O'Donnell, officer of No. 45 Stearns Street, north side, was walking along Duquesne Avenue at 10:30 yesterday night when a youthful stranger drew aside from the crowd and stopped him and his wife, right off.

Unlike the Prince in the Cinderella story, he was not a beggar nor coach with milk-white steeds. Instead, he pocketed the coat and hat of Mrs. O'Donnell in an ordinary automobile without explanation. Perry notified police.

SELLS FEDERAL AGENT WATER INSTEAD OF GIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Although Alfred Hauer, a probation agent, by selling him water instead of gin, got him to confess the day before he was arrested on Nastrom avenue and Haledy street, he was not able to get him to confess to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner J. W. McElroy, in charge of selling the forbidden beverage.

Hauer testified he bought from two places of gin, for which he paid about $100, and when he was questioned showed it contained 30 per cent alcohol.

Then took the stand. He said he had been drinking beer, water, and sometimes water to buy gin, and that supposing Hauer was a federal agent he failed to tell him.

"OLD SILVER" FAMED ELK, FOOLS HUNTERS

DENVER, Nov. 15.—Old Silver, majestic elk of the Rockies, one of the first to the other for 10 years, and the most famous hunter, has survived another open season in which he has been followed by his followers throughout the West and around the world.

For a mountain retreat, in Grand County, Colo., Old Silver, master of the woods, and his followers who preceded the three-day open season, had gathered him in his first shot he gathered his little herd of cows and yearlings and sought the safety of the snowbound mountains. He had been again until the season closed.

Guarantee That Mennonites Will Not Become Public Charge is Asked

PROPOSED TO BRING 5,000 FROM RUSSIA

Saskatchewan Government Draws Up Statement at Conference

Canadian Press

REGINA, Nov. 15.—Following a conference which took place Thursday afternoon between members of the provincial cabinet and Bishop Toews, the Mennonite leader, a statement will be issued by the community in Canada with respect to the proposed immigration. A Mennonite cabinet held a meeting at which an official statement was drawn up, and the Mennonites will issue it in the form of a letter.

A Mennonite spokesman said that there are many Mennonites in Canada who are not in agreement with many fine qualities the government insists upon having in immigrants, and those who are in comfortable circumstances in the provinces are asked to let the government know after any of their relatives who may be coming.

The government is also asking that the federal government guarantee that all those who come will not become a public charge, and in case of any necessary expense, that the federal expenses will be defrayed by the federal authorities.

Letter to Bishop

Dear Sir: Will you please to the question of bringing a certain number of families from Russia to us as soon as possible. At present I beg to submit the following statement to the Saskatchewan government:

We desire to state that we appreciate the many fine qualities of the majority of the Mennonites in Canada.

We desire to state that we desire to become law-abiding citizens. We feel that we have the right to do this at any time when they wish to bring to this province.

But we must insist that we are not considered as being a public charge, and in case of any necessary expense, that the federal expenses will be defrayed by the federal authorities.

Yours very truly,

John C. Buckley,
St. Paul, Alberta.

MOTOR BODY MAKES TRIP TO MILLET

Automobile Ass'n Con- tinues Whirlwind Drive For New Members

Continuing their whirlwind drive to recruit new members, the Automobile Association of Alberta, under the leadership of Mayor J. West and the motorists of Millet, held a chicken supper on Friday evening.

Included in the trip was O. H. Hirschauer, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; G. E. McLean, president of the M. A. McIntyre, H. P. Brown and R. G. Thompson, of Edmonton.

The supper finished a long run in Millet, during which the Board of Trade, introduced party to the town.

F. Barnhouse, the president of the association, addressed the meeting.

Local objects of the organization, namely, the keeping of the pads in good shape, the soliciting of the general public to support the safety first slogan and securing of uniforms.

The potential power of the Alberta Motorists' Association, according to the U.P.A., declared Chas. Grant, president of the association. Mr. Grant gave a short history of the automobile in the province, relating that the first car in Alberta was driven by the Lord's Day Act in keeping open for specified lines of business, according to the laws of the province.

In referring to the official act, Mr. Grant said that the magazine had done much to promote the safety first slogan.

The history of this association is being written by the author of the speech, concluded the speaker.

J. G. Green, manager of the financial department, reported that the campaign was well under way.

Green concluded with the statement that a sum of $10,000 had been collected by the association in the first month of its existence.

THE CENOTAPH SITE

There is reason in the view of Ald. Collison that the proposed cenotaph should not be located in the middle of a street. A cenotaph is an emblem erected in memory of some person or persons buried elsewhere. To locate a structure of the kind in a street would be inappropriate, he reasons, as it would detract from the purpose and use of a public thoroughfare. The proper place for a tomb is in a cemetery, or a public park, some quiet nook, where, as Ald. Gibbs suggests, it can be given a fitting setting of shrubbery, lawn, or flowers.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Without reference to political parties or particular one, fact seems sufficient enough to call for general agreement. If Canadians wish or hope that Canadian products may be sold abroad, they ought to try to buy those products themselves. It takes a great deal of credibility to suppose that a Canadian-made article which does not command a preference in Canada can compete successfully against the products of all countries in foreign markets.

If Canadians want to stimulate a demand abroad for goods produced in Canada, the best way they can do that is to make those goods widely known in our stores. In so doing they will help to strengthen the Canadian producer to the point where he can produce on terms which his foreign competitors. Any industry which has a good product and a market has very little chance of cutting much figure on the other side of the earth. Canadians should themselves buy what they want others to buy.

GOVE SHOULD TAKE CHARGE

Where a catastrophe strikes an Alberta community, such as that which occurred at Thorhild on Wednesday, Provincial Government should throw currency to the wind, step in and take charge of the situation, and see that food, shelter, clothing and medical services are supplied to all who need them immediately and freely. Taxpayers of the province thus suddenly plunged into unforeseen distress should not be left to the uncertainties of unorganized assistance and private benevolence.

This is the seventh Alberta town wiped out by fire this year. There should be organized a relief campaign of the provincial administration to deal with emergencies of this character, through which the resources of the province could be brought into play at once when a disaster occurs. The law at least demands that the minister should take measures of direction in dealing with such situations, the legislature should remedy that defect at the coming session. Meantime, the ministers should take matters in hand in the Thorhild district and rely upon the legislature approving their course when it meets.

CANDIDATES AND PLATFORMS

It can be fairly said that Edmonton voters are to have good material from which to choose the most patriotic and ablest trustees this year. The C. G. A. has undoubtedly made up a strong slate. The Labor party has likewise selected men who have long been known to represent the policies of its views. On either side a majority of candidates have already shown service, have the advantage of experience in office, are well known. Computation can be extended to both parties on having secure representations which will be acceptable to the rank and file of the organizations and who should be able to make a strong appeal for general support. The election at large, however, as they look over the list that they have the opportunity to fill up the vacancies with men of standing, integrity and sound ability.

The contestants in the ring, the next question is what distinctive civic policies they propose to put into effect if elected. On that subject the electors are entitled to expect clear-cut and definite statements, and are very likely to do so. The major question is not who is to be in the city council next year, but what next year's council is going to do. The respective platforms of the rival organizations should be got before the public without delay. The time is too long for a thorough, thoughtful-out plan for the development of an informed and decisive public opinion. It is to be hoped that the candidates will rely less upon the mechanical slogan and more upon programs that rest upon the presentation of constructive proposals for the advancement of the city and the improvement of conditions. That after all is the supreme concern of the enlightened men in all groups and sections. Let us have a battle royal of ideas and ideals, with the progress and welfare of Edmonton as the common objective."

Memory

By EDGAR A. OEST

And if I shall remember
The tulips of the spring,
The birds that sing in the trees,
The songs the children sing,
The flowers that bloom in the fields,
Which mean so much to me,
I'll keep in my memory.

I do not ask to go there
With boastful tales to tell
To you, my friends, there.
This life I've loved so well,
I would recall a few things
That I have done, the true things
The tender and the true things
That I have done.

And shall I wake from sleeping
To find I am still keeping
Of earthy tales to tell
To those I would remember:
The flowers, the birds, the trees,
The tulips in the spring.

"Come to Holler!"

By GLENN FRANK

Wheeler McMillen, in his incomparably intelligent talk on the basic and baffling farm problem, "Too Many Farmers," gave a most instructive and profound moral:

"...the scene of the first story was a political meeting in North Carolina. The ever vigorous Coley House, a small town banker, asked a speaker, 'What did you think of Coley House?' 'I thought it was a good house,' he said. 'I didn't come here to think, I came here to holler!'

The second story tells of a North Carolina planter's return to his home after a long absence.

"...The planter went to New York to find out for himself whether he should hold or sell his large stock of tobacco.

"He was warehoused after warehouse crowded to the bursting point with tobacco from all over the world, where all winter wharfs laden with tobacco.

"He saw still further cargoes of tobacco being unloaded.

"...The men snuffed tobacco right here," he said to his host. "They were so engrossed in their tobacco that it was hard to get them to leave."

"...The men snuffed tobacco right here," he said to his host. "They were so engrossed in their tobacco that it was hard to get them to leave."

"...The men snuffed tobacco right here," he said to his host. "They were so engrossed in their tobacco that it was hard to get them to leave."

"...The men snuffed tobacco right here," he said to his host. "They were so engrossed in their tobacco that it was hard to get them to leave."

Dr. Wallace Gives New Students Insight Into Finer University Life

Educational Institution has Many Functions in Life

"There is nothing more stimulating than being associated with research workers who have discovered a new truth," said Dr. E. Wallace, president of the University, in addressing a meeting of students at the first and second years, held on Tuesday morning in Convocation Hall.

In addressing the students, Dr. Wallace called attention to the fact that they have been in attendance at the University for two years, and for their loyalty to be formed.

What Does University Stand For? What does the University stand for? What are its aims? These are among the questions which Dr. Wallace put to the students in his address.

The second endeavor of the University is to supply the means for the development of students, improving their health, their processes, judgments and the critical faculties, and the moral and spiritual health of the young human race.

This is a function of all places and all times, but particularly in the faculties of Arts and

Meetings On Town Planning Proposed

The public is urged to consider town planning efforts on a more systematic basis in the near future. It was decided at a meeting of the town planning committee of the Alberta Provincial Council of Town Planners, held on Vancouver's Lower Lonsdale, while J. P. D. Tupper, assistant director of the provincial town planning commission, will speak on coming.

GOVT. ASKED TO PAY PART
BRIDGE COST*Sympathetic Hearing Given on Delegation—May Decide Today

Decision of the provincial government on the request of the city to share part of the cost of constructing a bridge across the Bow River at the high level bridge will be known today. A delegation from the government is presented to the east of the Bow River bridge on Saturday. A share will be submitted to the bureau of public works by the delegation, which was announced by Mayor A. G. Bell, Friday morning.

Members of the delegation are: David Mitchell, engineer A. W. Hadlow, J. E. Love, C. H. Grant, W. H. Butherford, E. T. Love, C. H. Grant, W. H. Butherford, E. T. Love, C. H. Grant, W. H. B. Reid, engineer A. W. Hadlow, Mr. George Headley, minister of finance, and Mr. Frank O'Grady, head of the Bow River Barometer Association.

It was decided to postpone the case for today. Mr. McLaughlin spoke for the delegation, while Mr. Headley, president of the Bow River Barometer Association, gave the views of the association.

The delegation will meet the plan called for two approaches to the bridge, to correspond to the two roads on either side of the river.

The enormous growth of motor traffic has made the construction of a bridge a necessity. It was pointed out that when it was found necessary to close the bridge for a few days some years ago as a temporary measure, the government came to the rescue.

The delegation called for an early decision. The mayor reported, and it is expected a decision will be made Friday afternoon.

City Telephones Profits Increase

Subscribers of the city telephone department in the last month of this year was $92,914, a slight increase over the corresponding period last year, while the figure for 1928 was $89,417, according to J. Hodgson, city manager. The number of telephones in the city last year was 16,731, while in 1928 there were 16,371 telephones in the system. The growth of the telephone service in 1928 was 1,360 at this time last year.

Sitting in the supreme court on Friday, Mr. Justice Tweedie decided to adjourn the trial of the Norwood Patricia Company against the Western Motors in Edmonton until January 10, 1930, with the purchase of a motor vehicle.

The Norwood Patricia Company will hold their annual meeting in Edmonton on December 10. Election of officers for the ensuing year will be the main item of business.

From Canada To Cuba By CanoeMORE ABOUT FIRE

The first alarm was turned on. The second alarm was sent out, and the general alarm was sent out at 6:30 a.m. The fire was still burning at 6:30 a.m. on Saturday.

Oil tanks to the south of the burning building exploded by sparks from the burning school. A number of trees and grass were set afire.

In fact, two platoons under Major John Graham, 10th Hussars, covered the avenue to the south of the fire between 10th and 14th streets, driving away the first oil tanks, providing protection for the tanks.

Firefighters

Dificulties of the firemen were added to when one of No. 1 Hall pump failed to work. The pump was put out on fire, the force of the explosion having been so great that the pump was thrown off its base at a distance of 10 feet. Firemen say that the engine racing as a result of the explosion caused the pump to fail.

Chief A. Dutton was charged with a single plier one foot wide charged with dynamite and threw it through the window of the burning building, but struck another post until the fire was brought under control.

Fireman John Graham, No. 5 Hall, was severely injured when he fell from a ladder. He was sent to hospital and is not yet known if he will live.

Firemen from Hall 2 and 8 rushed to the aid of their burning comrades who had been overcome by smoke and a series of explosions. And, incidentally, they were the first to arrive at the scene.

Another Failure

If the first fire was bad, I must admit still another failure—I missed the how and arras my friend shot at me. Perhaps he had planned to be the only victim of these terrible events, but I am afraid he was not.

Perhaps this excess of living operated on him, too. He was a very simple man, and did not seem to be particularly interested. And, incidentally, he was the only one who seemed to be internally clever.

After all, he had a good life, and his eight mouse-hole caves, which are blackened so the rodents were unable to get out, were quite comfortable.

As I approached one snare my horse slipped and fell, and I was thrown onto a large bison's feet in the "run".

When the tracks got within a foot of the traps, however, they sharply turned to the right, and I was able to dislodge the run on either side with a single blow of my rifle.

Knowing that she would break the run, I was able to get her to the right, and the little hole usually enters the run, but she would not go that way. Suddenly occurred to me that I was merely a mouse, and I was able to get out of the hole and run away.

For then the fire was ready. A bison had come up behind me, and the second alarm was turned on.

District Chief Magrane ordered rigs from No. 8 Hall to No. 2, and from No. 7 to No. 5, to cover the valuable property of the city.

Breaches in the lake are still rising from the buildings, only the walls of stone houses remain standing. A mass of steel girders is visible through the broken windows—the remains of the most famous school on the continent.

curiously, as did the new telephone school house, the garage, a small restaurant and the stone grain elevator, a number of houses were still standing around the town.

It was still burning around the town, and it was reported that the buildings that had been destroyed were still in danger of destruction. The firemen were still fighting the flames, and volunteers were battling the flames in an effort to keep the flames from reaching the roofs, which is almost full to capacity with

Telephone communication with the outside world was interrupted when the fire was reported Thursday afternoon by government telephone lines and remained cut off until about 10 o'clock on Friday morning.

It was later learned that the telephone lines were still in danger of destruction.
